

By inserting the following in your useful Gazette, you will oblige a constant reader. I observed in your paper of May 25th, No 247, a ferocious production under the signature of A Lover of Peace...

But this decision of liberty is doubtless very pleasing to men of a benevolent disposition, and who are possessed of a just and liberal mind...

And now they will exert themselves to their utmost to create discord and animosities among mankind, and disturb the peace of Society...

But when a whole disposition is of this complexion, are we permitted to decry their just mind...

But the greatest grievance, of which this pretended Lover of Peace complains, is that ministers of the gospel should be imprisoned by the civil law...

Our authors under the signature of Suspectious, says, "he is well acquainted with the man who came away, the author of this libel."

PHILAEUS. N. B. This author says, the vote for raising the minister's salary the last year, was obtained, but not too much. But he will tell his name, it can, and shall be proved to be a fact, that it was two.

For the HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE. To the Person who files himself A Lover of Peace, the Person who signed the false story of Frank, Jewels, Greening.

did, nor should I have troubled myself to have answered your friend, was not for this, that you have so much mistook the author at the point you attempted to write upon...

PLAIN TRUTH. P. S. Sir, if you have doubts on your mind whether ministers of the Gospel have a right to support from a Christian People...

For the HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE. The PUBLIC is the PRINTER.

Sir, B. G. kindly inquires, in our behalf, of these persons who are quarreling in your paper...

For the HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE. To the Printer.

MR. PROMPTER. I HAVE read many of your Numbers, and it appears therein, as if you were acquainted with my manner of superintending my domestic affairs...

HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1791. NORTHAMPTON, (Massachusetts) Published by WILLIAM BUTLER.

A new scientific discovery of ANIMAL ELECTRICITY. TRUE MAGNETISM: Calculated in detail and described in a concise and popular manner.

Many instances of the amazing power of sympathy have been manifested in all animals, but only to inform, confirm this, and apply it with all your might to the present subject, according to the above directions.

When you move your hands properly, with full intention, and fervent wishes to do good to the patient, exerting all your faculties to produce the most salutary effects, you will soon perceive the consequence...

Many diseases at first arise from sympathy, and the want of a proper circulation of the blood and spirits. Performances properly directed, produce colds and fevers, and all the foundations of incurable distempers, as consumption, &c.

Of an inferior, even of a heavy, that made the Fond of false glory for the frange were. Of a vulgar, without reason, of consciousness, but and unjust, by an unbounded will.

Having explained briefly the principles of this wonderful science, I shall next consider the modes of treatment. Different people have different modes, but I need only mention two, as they are enough for our purpose.

In this method you must be quite abstracted, be absent from all other things, place your thoughts intently upon the subject on which you would operate. Let the intention of your mind be kept to the work as closely as possible, accompanied with the utmost exertions of volition, or the strongest powers of your will and affections.

When you move your hands properly, with full intention, and fervent wishes to do good to the patient, exerting all your faculties to produce the most salutary effects, you will soon perceive the consequence, both in yourself, and those whom you treat.

It is necessary now to mention some of those disorders to which the body is subject, and which this operation is most likely to remove.

Many diseases at first arise from sympathy, and the want of a proper circulation of the blood and spirits. Performances properly directed, produce colds and fevers, and all the foundations of incurable distempers, as consumption, &c.

But at it is not my design to dwell upon arguments and points of this nature, but only to inform, confirm this, and apply it with all your might to the present subject, according to the above directions.

In quiet Anne's reign, a soldier belonging to a marching regiment, that was quartered in the city of Worcester, was taken up for desertion, and being tried by a court martial for the same, was sentenced to be shot.
